

CHRISTENSEN IS STATE CHAIRMAN

Chosen at Meeting of the Republican Committee.

CONVENTION DATE CHANGED

WILL BE HELD AT OGDEN ON SEPTEMBER 11.

PARLEY P. CHRISTENSEN, county attorney, is the new chairman of the republican state committee; S. P. Nelson is the secretary, and the convention will be held at Ogden on Sept. 11, instead of Aug. 14.

This was the outcome of the meeting of the committee yesterday at the Culbertson hotel. It was announced that the date would be changed. That was the object of the meeting. But the reorganization was somewhat unexpected, and to discover the reason for it is the puzzle.

The committee convened in answer to the call of Acting Chairman Christensen, and fourteen of the twenty-six parties were represented, as follows: Wesley K. Walton of Rich, Joseph A.

Edgar, George M. Hanson of Weber, J. B. Porter of Morgan, Jesse M. Smith of Davis, D. H. Wenger of Salt Lake, Will Spier of Tooele, Charles DeMolay of Utah, Orelle Thompson of Millard, W. H. Clark of Sevier, Alf. Floyd of Iron, John W. Driscoll of Juab, W. D. Livingston of Sanpete.

The first thing the committee did was to throw out the date of the convention, not from the same county as the committee members represented by them.

Various dates were then discussed for the holding of the convention, and Sept. 11 was finally adopted.

Choose a Chairman.

Inasmuch as there was no head to the committee, the vice chairman having been elected, the committee decided to choose a chairman. Parley P. Christensen and Thomas Hull were nominated for the office of chairman, and Christensen was elected by a vote of 10 to 4. Mr. Hull was then elected vice chairman.

For secretary, to succeed Mrs. Bradley, N. P. Nelson, private secretary to Congressman George Sutherland, was nominated. George M. Hanson, before the vote was taken, suggested that the chairman should have the right to name his secretary, at which Mr. Christensen readily assented. His satisfaction with Mr. Nelson. The latter was then elected without a murmur.

W. F. Adams was elected treasurer. Chairman Christensen will announce his executive committee at an early date, and headquarters will be opened, with Mr. Nelson in charge. The latter, it is expected, will resign as secretary in the congressional campaign.

Mr. Christensen has been raised in the state committee. He became a member of the committee in 1892 and since that time has served continuously as secretary and vice chairman.

In making the selections for the year yesterday, the committee had in view the facilitation of all parties. After giving Christensen the chairmanship it was deemed no more than right to put an anti-machine man into the secretaryship. Matters were about even, too, in the vice chairmanship and treasurer.

FIRE IN TEMPLETON.

Big Building Was Threatened With Destruction.

A fire, which for a time threatened the entire building, started in the Templeton block yesterday afternoon, but was extinguished after entailing a loss that will approximate $4,000. The fire originated in the office of Dr. W. L. Shaw, where a lighted gas jet, used for ventilating purposes, was left in the center of the room. A lace curtain was blown against the jet, and the room was soon in flames. Other rooms adjoining were also wrapped in the flames, and the entire southwestern corner of the building was ablaze on the arrival of the department. Efforts were made by people in the building to check the fire, but were futile.

Several offices on the fourth floor were damaged by the fire, while one underneath was injured by water which had been used to extinguish the flames. The loss to the building is estimated at $1,200, and the offices at nearly $3,000.

CHANCE FOR GIRLS.

Four Scholarships in School of Domestic Science to Be Awarded.

State Superintendent Nelson is in receipt of a letter from the Oread Institute of Domestic Sciences, at Worcester, Mass., requesting the names of girls of Utah eligible to compete for free scholarships awarded by the institute. While the letter falls to state the number of scholarships to be awarded, the superintendent has endeavored to comply with the request as soon as he can complete a list of eligible students.

As the name of the institute implies, successful competitors are admitted to a one-year course of training in cooking, marketing, house economics, etc. It is the intention of Superintendent Nelson to comply with the request as soon as he can complete a list of eligible students.

STRANGER HELD UP AND ROBBED IN BROAD DAYLIGHT AT THE SHORT LINE DEPOT

A brace of highwaymen operated in broad daylight yesterday morning and made quite a haul. The name of the victim was not learned. The stranger bought a ticket for the south at the office of the Oregon Short Line and afterward took a walk around the depot. He expected to go out on the train which leaves the station at 7:55.

He was standing at the end of the depot when he was approached by two strangers. One of them asked him what time it was and made a movement to get his watch. One of the highwaymen then grabbed him by the throat and the other went through his pockets. In searching they found that the highwaymen tore his clothing badly and ripped his trousers on one side from the pocket nearly to the knee.

They secured about $60 in cash and fled. They did not take the stranger's watch nor his ticket.

The stranger made a search for an officer, but the patrolman does not go on duty so early in the morning. He explained to W. H. McAllister, the station agent, what had happened, and appeared to be quite indignant that there was no officer convenient. He wanted to go out on the morning train, but owing to the robbery deferred his trip until evening.

There is much complaint because no officer is stationed at the depot at early hours. The depot people complain that there are always people hanging around the depot, but no one seems to have the authority to ascertain their business. Some of the people who hang around the waiting room are loungers who would not hesitate to rob a man if he had money and was easy to get at. There seems to be urgent need for a depot policeman who will be on duty all the time. At present the officer does not go on until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and he is relieved at 11 o'clock at night. The train service in the morning surpasses that of the afternoon and there is more need of an officer then.

HE HAD MUCH MONEY.

Mystery Surrounds the Disappearance of R. D. Crandall.

If the earth had opened and swallowed him, R. D. Crandall could not have disappeared more effectively than when he walked out of the depot after buying a ticket on the Oregon Short Line several days ago. Crandall was bound for Portland, and he is a mystery. He had not been seen since he left him, but he did not come, and they began to make inquiries regarding his whereabouts.

Crandall called at the depot a week ago Sunday and asked for a ticket to Portland. He also took out an accident ticket for $2,000. That is the last seen of him. It is customary in selling accident insurance to ascertain a person's home. Crandall stated that he lived in Portland. The information was wanted in case of an accident.

It is known that Crandall had about $2,000 in the bank. This money he drew out. He was advised to take a draft, but he said he preferred cash. He had notified his relatives that he was coming, but he did not arrive and they wrote here to learn if he had given up the trip. His friends here were surprised to learn that Crandall had reached his destination.

Inquiries have been made to learn his whereabouts, but his movements after leaving the depot are a mystery. Naturally his friends cannot disabuse their minds of the fear that Crandall met with foul play. He might as well have turned into thin air so far as anything is known of his movements after he left the depot. He had some baggage checked which reached Portland, but it was not called for.

BARBER FINED.

Judge Stewart Adjudges Him Guilty of Keeping Shop Open on Sunday.

In the case of the prosecution of Henry Sopher, a non-union barber, by the local barbers' union, on the charge of violating the Sunday closing law, Judge Stewart in the district court yesterday fined Sopher $10 and costs. The case, which was brought to test the Sunday closing law, was not bitterly fought, both sides submitting to an agreed statement of facts, which consisted of the defendant carrying on a shop on Sunday, June 16, 1901.

John H. L. Rothwell, the clerk of the union, entered the shop and received a shave, for which he paid 25 cents.

J. Jensen, an employee of Sopher's who was jointly indicted, was discharged on account of lack of evidence. It is understood that Sopher, to test the constitutionality of the law, will appeal to the supreme court.

ROOMS THROWN OPEN.

Many Visitors to Commercial Club's Quarters.

The new and palatial quarters of the Commercial club in the Menzies building were open to members yesterday for the first time. At luncheon about 150 persons were served.

The club occupies the entire south half of the new building, and it has been constructed, according to the plans of the club's architect. The rooms are furnished quite as elegantly as any club in the metropolitan region, something like $4,000 having been put into the furniture.

The following members were elected last night: R. J. Decker, T. L. Oswald, Samuel Merrill, John Beck, Morris Somner, Thomas Nipper, Salt Lake, and Fred J. Kiesel, Ogden.

The board of governors has suspended the house rules until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and any members may take their friends through the club rooms between now and then.

NELSON IS ENJOINED

Judge Hall Decides He Must Not Enter Into Contract For School Books.

District Court Judge Hall yesterday permanently enjoined A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of public instruction, from entering into contracts with the book firms whose bids for school books were accepted by the recent school book convention.

State Superintendent Nelson says that the effect of the decision will be that the old books must be used at the opening of the schools. He says also that there are not enough of these to satisfy the demand, and that in consequence many children will of necessity be without books.

Mr. Nelson is in doubt as to the proper course for him to pursue. Should he appeal from Judge Hall's decision, several months would likely elapse before a final opinion could be hoped for from the supreme court. Should he call another convention, sixty days' notice would be required under the law, and even then the action taken might be attacked, as the law requires the convention to be called thirty days prior to the expiration of the contracts with the publishers.

"The decision came in the nature of such a surprise," said Superintendent Nelson yesterday afternoon, "that I am undecided as to what steps to take. I intended seeing my counsel this afternoon, but failed to do so. However, I had a lengthy talk with Attorney General Nelson, and he is of the opinion that I should not divide the nature of which I cannot divulge till tomorrow morning, when I will definitely decide what to do."

Asked if there is no means by which the children can have their books at the opening of school, Superintendent Nelson replied in the negative.

"I had thought of sending notices of another convention, and in the meantime get the sentiment of the county superintendents. The publishers could then bring their books and the convention would only have to go through the formality of voting for them. This, however, would be attacked on the ground of legality and would again be knocked out. Besides, the recent election has resulted in the selection of many new superintendents, who will not give an idea of their choice."

The suit just decided has attracted the widespread attention of educators throughout Utah. It was brought by Stewart T. Nelson, publisher of the Salt Lake Tribune, from making contracts with the publishers whose books were accepted, on the ground that the public law forbade given by successful publishers, and that the sessions of the convention were held behind closed doors.

Judge Hall, in his decision, which was oral, overruled the state superintendent's demurrer to the complaint, found the law for the plaintiff and ordered the temporary order heretofore issued made permanent.
